

Highway of Dreams

Terms and conditions of submitting a dream

Highway of Dreams is a professional community project commissioned by Ideas Test and supported by Arts Council England's Creative People and Places. The project intends to have a positive social impact and be a vehicle for Medway's community voices to reach the wider world. We want everyone taking part to have a great experience, so thank you for taking the time to read about how we might work with any material you submit.

Messages to the Dreamline (01634 525 003):

- Messages left on this voicemail are received by the project's co-producer Fin Kennedy as sound files.
- Please do not call from a switchboard or withhold your number because it means we cannot call you back.
- In calling the line you agree for any material you submit to be included in a montage of voicemail messages to be edited together and made available online.
- We may need to edit down what you say and reserve the right to do so without consultation.
- We operate a family friendly content policy (10+) and can only work with material which stays free from discriminatory, explicit or hate speech, profanity, blasphemy or for any other reason at the project producers' discretion including defamation etc.
- Leaving a message does not guarantee your dream will be used or included in either the voicemail montage or the final project.
- The project is at pilot stage so at present we only have the staffing capacity to call back those contributors who we would like to work with to develop their dream into a script for recording.
- In calling the Dreamline you agree that Applied Stories and Ideas Test can store your phone number and email address in line with GDPR regulations. Ideas Test's privacy policy can be found here.

Development into minidramas:

- In addition to the voicemail montage we will develop two dream submissions into 3-minute audio minidramas, co-created with playwright Fin Kennedy. The fuller project is subject to future funding but will eventually become an audio installation of dreams to be experienced on a bus journey down the A2, of up to 20 such minidramas.
- Story scripts are likely to be for a single voice, performed by the story's contributor. These will be uploaded to a prototype app and geolocated.
- All participants will have editorial control and right of approval over their final story scripts.
- Copyright in the final dream script will be shared between Applied Stories and the contributor.
- If you are under 18 you will need permissions for your dream to be included from a parent or guardian.
- Highway of Dreams will always be free to experience. Applied Stories will never charge anyone to access your dream.
- After recording, we won't edit or change your dream without your permission.
- Clips of your dream or voicemail might be used for publicity purposes indefinitely.
